GROOMING

Online sexual abuse is commonly conducted via webcams, instant messenger applications (such as Skype) and social networking sites

Computer-generated 'Sweetie' catches online predators

By Angus Crawford
BBC News

More than 100 Britons were among 5,000 men caught trying to pay a computer-generated child to perform sex acts online, after a Dutch children's charity set up a fake profile.

Terre des Hommes (children's charity) carried out a sting, posing on video chat rooms as "Sweetie", a 10-year-old Filipina girl. Some 20,000 men contacted her, with 1,000 found to have offered her money. The names of these men - including 110 Britons - were passed to police.

How do offenders engage youngsters?
- by using the sites that they use....

Often posing as a child of the same age / gender.

They will often purposefully present a very similar profile as the child.

They are skilled at manipulating them into criminal sexual relationships

Online grooming: The five stages

1

Friendship

Flattering a child

into talking in a private chatroom/game where they will be isolated

The child will often be asked for a non-sexual picture of themselves

Online grooming: The five stages

2

Forming a relationship

Gaining information

asking the child what problems /needs they have to create the illusion of being their best friend and that they can help

They begin to fill the needs of the child

Online grooming: The five stages

3

Risk assessment

Asking the child about the location of their computer/tablet and who else has access to it in order to assess the risk of being detected. The desire is to create situations where they are alone together to help reinforce a special connection

Online grooming: The five stages

4

Exclusivity

Building up a sense of mutual love and trust with the child suggesting that they can discuss "anything"

Online grooming: The five stages

5

Control

Engaging the child in explicit conversations & requesting sexually explicit pictures from them

At this stage the predator will usually try to arrange a meeting with the child

Sexting boy's naked selfie recorded as crime by police

© 3 September 2015 UK

A boy who sent a naked photograph of himself to a girl at school has had the crime of making and distributing indecent images recorded against him by police, the BBC has learnt.

The boy, aged 14, who was not arrested or charged, could have his name stored on a police database for 10 years.

Police have only recently started filing crime reports about sexting...

If school choose to take an incident to the police, then officers must record the crime.
